GUARANTEE OF BANK DEPOSITS.

Several Bills to Adopt That Idea Will Be Introduced.

Tallahassee, Fla.—It may be expected that several bills to adopt the Oklahoma idea of the guarantee of bank deposits in state banks will be introduced when the Florida legislature meets next April. It is a most attractive plan, seems to have great potentialities for good in it, apparently has worked well in Oklahoma and is now a part of the democratic national policy, which means that it will be applied to the national banks as soon as a democratic congress, as well as a democratic president, is elected.

Such a bill, it is said, will be introduced by Honorable Don C. McMullen, democratic nominee for state senator from Hillsborough county.

As Jacksonville's waterfront is becoming more and more valuable, the commerce of the port growing rapidly, the need for a fire boat to give better protection to the valuable buildings on that waterfront and the vessels moored at our wharves becomes continually more pressing.

Insanity Among Servants.

The annual report of an insane asylum in England recently published, revealed the circumstances that out of 336 patients 74 were housewives and 35 were domestic servants. An inquiry into the cause of this tendency to mental ills among household workers has been undertaken by a mental specialist, who is of the opinion that lack of recreation and of exercise in the open air forms the root of the trouble.

Women, he further says, it has been proved over and over again, are less able than men to face monotony. And in household duties, as these are often performed, may be found the most spiritless monotony. Remedies for this condition are not far to seek. The difficulty will be found in inducing many housekeepers to appreciate the benefits of the ounce of prevention. Women who have gained an intelligent control over their time and their households could be of excellent service, by the force of example, in helping to solve this particular problem.—Boston Transcript.

Hat Causes Hysterics.

A story has reached this country of a hat which spoiled an afternoon performance at a small French playhouse. It appears that in the absence of an orchestra a lady presided over the piano. She was neither young, pretty nor talented and not wishing to pass unnoticed conceived the idea of wearing a hat that would attract the attention of the audience.

In this she was successful. The hat looked like a good-sized umbrella covered with flowers, ribbons and birds. As the lady took her seat the surprise it caused hushed the audience into silence; when, however, the pianist struck the first notes and the flowers, ribbons and birds began to perform a mad dance, the storm broke loose and the laughter at last grew so terrific that the curtain was lowered to give the spectators an opportunity of regaining their composure. They never regained it, the performance was spoiled and the authors are suing the director for damages.—Millinery Trade Review.

Surgeon's Chances for Pay.

When the surgeon who happened to be spending a night at Bushby Inn had set the broken leg of the weather-beaten stranger who was the chief victim of an automobile accident the patient looked up at him anxiously. "See here, doc," he said in a husky voice, "I haven't got much if any money; would you take out your fee in trade?"

"Yes, I guess so," said the surgeon, cheerfully. "What is your trade?"

"Well, I've got a number of things I can do soon as I'm on my feet again," said the patient. "I can hang window blinds, or I can put on lightning rods, or I can play the cornet; and I do 'em all first rate, if I'm the one to say it, doc."—Youth's Companion.

A Deadly Combination.

"I'm a total wreck," complained the woman. "One of my friends has been here all afternoon, telling me her troubles, about her husband and somebody he is in love with. Terrible! But when she had finished she hauled out a novel and was writing about it and read to me for a couple of hours!"

"I could have stood the tale of woe, but to have the novel read to me! I'm just about dead."—New York Press.

Not To Be Disturbed.

"Sody crackers? Yes'm," said the country storekeeper. "I got 'em. I'll—er—send 'em up to you!"

"Well," replied Mrs. Medders. "I did 'low to take 'em with me."

"Yes'm, but, you see, Bill Bruser he's a-dozin' on top o' the bar'l jest now an' he ain't in the best o' humor today."—Philadelphia Press.
